Experience

CSIT Mentoring program

2017

The CSIT program aims to assist students within the computer science and information technology course within RMIT University. Mentors are student volunteers who are knowledgeable across a broad range of computer science subjects and are quite flexible in handling groups. Students often need help with Java and C assignments, others will come in need of assistance for websites. (HTML, CSS, JavaScript, PHP)

Personal projects

2016 - Now

In my own spare time, I have worked on multiple 'passion projects'. An Image scraper was built via python and an invoice generator was built in Visual Basic for a small business, these are just a few of the projects found on my GitHub. Arch Linux was installed in order to create some projects.

Checkpoint challenge

2017

- Successfully completed the pentesting challenge on day 1
 - Worked in a multicultural team that consisted of Business analysts and Israeli students to prepare a presentation in front of the officials.
